

Large Language Models: Boon or Bane?

Large Language Models: Boon or Bane?

October 12, 2023
7:30 – 9pm

Sloan Auditorium
Goergen Hall 101
University of Rochester

Free & open to the public
Zoom reg. link:
<https://bit.ly/LLMBB>

Center for Language Sciences
sas.rochester.edu/cls

Join UR faculty from Anthropology, BCS, Linguistics, Philosophy, Psychology, and Neuroscience, as well as CLS's 2023 Sag Fellow, for a panel discussion on Large Language Models and AI.

Host
Ash Asudeh [0,1]

Panel
John Beavers [1,2] (UT Austin)
Jeremy Jamieson [3]
Jens Kipper [4]
Sam Norman-Haignere [5,6]
Elise Piazza [7,6]
Dan Reichman [8]
Aaron White [1,9]

[0] Director of CLS [1] Linguistics [2] CLS Sag Fellow [3] Psychology [4] Philosophy [5] Biostatistics and Computational Biology [6] Neuroscience [7] Brain and Cognitive Sciences [8] Anthropology [9] Computer Science

> Write me a poem, in the style of Maya Angelou, on the theme "Large Language Models: Bane or Boon?"

*In the realm of words, both wide and deep,
We ponder models while the secrets seep.
Are they a bane, a shadowed woe,
Or a beacon of hope, where knowledge may grow?*

ChatGPT 3.5

> Write me a poem, in the style of W. B. Yeats, on the theme "Large Language Models: Bane or Boon?"

*In the realm of silicon, vast and deep,
Where language models their secrets keep,
A question looms, both shadow and moon,
Are they the bane or the blessed boon?*

ChatGPT 3.5